

LEGION SESSION INDEFINITELY POSTPONED

CONDITION OF STATE LEADER NAMED REASON

Local Post Commander Laments That Meeting Shall Not be Held

YEAR'S WORK LOST

State Officials Hostile to Holding Meet

The fall conference of District No. 7, Department of Ohio American Legion, scheduled to begin here Saturday evening, has been indefinitely postponed, Paul H. Betz, commander of Howard Hall post, announced Friday.

The action was taken because of the critical condition of Col. Ralph D. Cole, Department commander, who is in a hospital in Warren.

As sorrowful as I am that this action is necessary it is the only course our post has," Mr. Betz lamented Friday morning when making a statement concerning the postponement. "Every member of our post is ready and willing to go ahead with the conference but opposition in state headquarters causes the postponement."

ORDERED TO HALT

"I visited state headquarters Thursday afternoon hoping to obtain the whole-hearted cooperation or that organization in pushing the conference which would have been the greatest thing Circleville has ever had. But when I arrived there what did I learn? That circular letters ordering posts of the state to discontinue their efforts and for representatives to rush to Findlay (Col. Cole's home) were ready for the mail. If Col. Cole should succumb today and these letters go into the mail our conference would be a failure in every way."

"I found Jake Saslavsky (J. J. Saslavsky, state adjutant) was in Warren and he had given orders before departing that I should be notified to cancel all plans for the event. What were we to do but halt all plans," Mr. Betz concluded.

ELDEN WAS READY

John A. Elden of Cleveland, national 40th 8 commander, who had been named to fill Col. Cole's place on the local program, was contacted Thursday afternoon and declared he was ready to come here under any consideration although he and Col. Cole are "buddies." Elden thought the conference should have been carried on, regardless.

Fortunately the post auxiliary here has not gone to any great expense in planning its banquet on Saturday evening. No chickens nor other food had been purchased.

The postponement of the meeting means a year's work on the part of Howard Hall post going for naught. It was almost 12 months ago that the idea of the conference coming here was pushed to the fore. Commander Betz, E. C. Ebert and other Legionnaires have been making personal visits to some of the posts seeking their promises to come here. Everything pointed to a great conference but the face of opposition from state headquarters the only thing left to do was to postpone it.

MEANS CANCELLATION

Commander Betz is of the belief that the postponement means permanent cancellation of the conference as far as Circleville is concerned.

There have been 1,800 such conferences held without a cancellation now it falls upon Circleville's post to bear the brunt of this misfortune.

A mammoth parade was in the making with L. E. Miller, chairman of the Red Men's lodge, promising that five tribes would be entered. Several camps of Modern Woodmen were also scheduled to take part as were Boy Scouts of America from the entire county. Merchants, who had not already done so, had been making preparation to decorate their store windows in appropriate fashion.

But all their efforts have now availed nothing.

THINK GRAND JURY WILL INDICT PAIR

LIMA, Oct. 14.—Confidence that two first degree murder indictments will be returned by the grand jury in connection with the baffling quarry murders of Earl Treadwell and Miss Thelma Woods was expressed here today by E. M. Botkins, Allen county prosecutor.

The grand jury has virtually completed its probe of the murders, which occurred May 30, 1931, but its report probably will not be made until late today or tomorrow.

"Considerably Weaker" Physicians Report

WARREN, Oct. 14.—Although reported growing steadily weaker, Colonel Ralph D. Cole, 57, commander of Ohio's force of the American Legion, clung tenaciously to life today while a corps of five physicians battled against heavy odds to bring about his recovery.

Suffering from six fractured vertebrae in the vicinity of the neck that have caused an almost complete paralysis of the body, Colonel Cole remained totally conscious as City Hospital. Attaches disclosed that hope was practically abandoned that he might survive his injuries.

A hospital statement today said the Legion head had spent a "restless night" and that he was "considerably weaker" this morning. His death was regarded as "only a matter of time."

FAMILY AT BEDSIDE

Cole's immediate family was in constant attendance at the bedside, while friends and close associates in the American Legion stood nearby, handling the scores of messages and inquiries dispatched by friends and Legion posts in all parts of the state.

Ralph D. Cole Jr., only son of the colonel, arrived at the hospital late yesterday to join his mother in keeping the vigil at the bedside.

Despite his critical condition, attaches said Colonel Cole talked continuously.

AN EDITORIAL

HOWARD Hall post No. 134 of the American Legion is left holding the sack, with the announcement that the fall conference of the Seventh district scheduled to begin here Saturday night has been indefinitely postponed.

Just what benefits state legion officials think they will gain is beyond our comprehension but we do know it is a shame that the conference has been postponed.

LEAVES NO ALTERNATIVE

The action of high Ohio legion officials in informing Commander Paul H. Betz that their patronage at the conference cannot be certain because of the precarious condition of Col. Ralph D. Cole of Findlay, state commander, left Mr. Betz nothing other than to cancel all plans.

Col. Cole is critical, there is no question about that; Col. Cole is one of the finest Legionnaires of them all, but Col. Cole, if he had his way, would say GO AHEAD WITH YOUR PROGRAM.

He lies in a Warren, O., hospital with injuries which are expected to cause his death; it is for that reason that the conference will not be held.

A FITTING MEMORIAL?

Should Col. Cole pass to his final resting place between now and the time for the conference would the meeting with 2,400 veterans present not be a fitting place for a memorial service?

Howard Hall post has apparently been forgotten. The expense this organization has gone to in preparing for the conference, possibly the largest function ever attempted here, is huge and the Post treasury must bear the brunt.

BANDIT TAKEN TO CLEVELAND

Bush Taken to City Under Robe of Secrecy After Victim Dies of Wound.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—Under a cover of secrecy, Francis E. (Maack) Bush, who only yesterday was brought to Ohio penitentiary as a parole violator, was started back to Cleveland early this morning to face arraignment on a first degree murder charge.

An indictment charging first degree murder was handed down yesterday by the Cuyahoga-co grand jury in connection with the death of Herbert Quinlan, junior member of a Cleveland jewelry establishment.

INJURY FATAL

Quinlan died in Cleveland yesterday from wounds received last Saturday when Bush and a pal, Norman Townsend, attempted to hold up Quinlan and his father, E. S. Quinlan.

Fearing a possible gang shooting on Bush's return, as a resumption of the wild shooting escapade which accompanied the robbery, Warden P. E. Thomas moved with all caution in sending the alleged bandit and murderer back to Cleveland.

Bush was removed from his cell in the "idle company" at an early hour, before the day's work was started at the prison.

What route was taken, or who accompanied Bush, could not be learned from the warden.

"There is no use to court trouble," he declared. "Suppose a gang of Bush's friends would waylay the officers, and shoot two or three. We are not going to invite anything of that kind by giving details of his return."

Unshaken at any point of his weird story, the 22-year-old confessed liquor runner, ex-convict and forger stuck to his account, having witnessed the slaying of the multi-millionaire underworld chieftain, Rothstein, in the spacious lobby of the Park Central hotel in New York.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt stood before the country today with a solemn promise that if elected president he would inaugurate a "definite long range plan" for dealing with unemployment relief and other social welfare work, which he holds are a "proper concern" of the federal government.

In a nationwide radio address, Democratic presidential nominee asserted that the primary responsibility for caring for the jobless rests upon local communities, but that when local funds are insufficient the obligation passes to state governments and then to the federal government.

"ABANDON FEAR"

"Where the state itself in unable successfully to fulfill this obligation it then becomes the positive duty of the federal government to step in and help," Roosevelt said. "That duty and responsibility the federal government should carry out promptly."

The parents of the children, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Libo, were detained for questioning in an effort to ascertain why Mrs. Lorenz, comely 31-year-old divorcee, sought vengeance when she hurled the boy and girl from the 16th floor of a new hotel and then leaped after them to death on the pavement below.

Once in the room on the 16th story Mrs. Lorenz used silk stockings to bind the knees and hands of her little victims. First, she lifted the screaming boy to the window and pushed him over the sill to his death. Then, the frightened, hysterical little girl was dispatched to the same horrible fate. Illinois Mayor Claims Two Officers Responsible For Miner's Death.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Oct. 14.—The Southern Illinois coal mine labor war rose to a fever pitch again today following the issuance of murder warrants, naming two officers of the national guard.

The warrants were sworn out by Mayor Thomas F. Foster of Tovey, a mining community eight miles south of here, where Andy Ganes, a "rebel" coal miner, was shot and fatally wounded in a scuffle with police and militiamen.

Issued by Justice of the Peace J. W. Lowery, the warrants accuse Col. Robert W. Davis and Capt. Carl J. Neacham with responsibility for the slaying. Col. Davis is in command of seven companies of the National Guard sent to the Christian-co coal fields to preserve order. Capt. Neacham is Col. Davis' executive officer.

Resentful of the killing of Ganes, 2,000 insurgent miners were said to be assembling for a demonstration. The guardsmen were held under arms to deal with any emergency.

NOMINEE FOR GOVERNMENT AID FOR POOR

Roosevelt Favors Local Community Efforts Before National

RAPS LEADERSHIP

"Hoover Acted Only After Being Forced"

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt stood before the country today with a solemn promise that if elected president he would inaugurate a "definite long range plan" for dealing with unemployment relief and other social welfare work, which he holds are a "proper concern" of the federal government.

In a nationwide radio address, Democratic presidential nominee asserted that the primary responsibility for caring for the jobless rests upon local communities, but that when local funds are insufficient the obligation passes to state governments and then to the federal government.

"ABANDON FEAR"

"Where the state itself is unable successfully to fulfill this obligation it then becomes the positive duty of the federal government to step in and help," Roosevelt said. "That duty and responsibility the federal government should carry out promptly."

Revenge Blamed For Maniacal Deaths

Comely Divorcee Ties Brother's Children and Tosses Them To Ground.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 14.

A maniacal thirst for revenge was attributed by police today for the tragedy of murder and suicide which claimed the lives of Milton Libo, 4, his 5-year-old sister, Vivian, and their aunt, Mrs. Aurelia Libo Lorenz.

The parents of the children, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Libo, were detained for questioning in an effort to ascertain why Mrs. Lorenz, comely 31-year-old divorcee, sought vengeance when she hurled the boy and girl from the 16th floor of a new hotel and then leaped after them to death on the pavement below.

Once in the room on the 16th story Mrs. Lorenz used silk stockings to bind the knees and hands of her little victims. First, she lifted the screaming boy to the window and pushed him over the sill to his death. Then, the frightened, hysterical little girl was dispatched to the same horrible fate. Finally, Mrs. Lorenz stepped off into space.

ONIONS ARE CHEAPER THAN EVER

There may be pros and cons to the eating of onions, but the cons are mostly aesthetic. Otherwise, providing you like the flavor, the argument is all pro. The cons, moreover, may often be overcome by methods of preparation and manner of use, says food specialists who call attention to the food value, the general usefulness, and, just now especially, the very low cost of onions. Market were they cheaper, say market specialists, and the crop is so large that much of it probably never will be shipped. This is the time to use onions not only to season other dishes, but for themselves alone, as one of the chief vegetables of the day.

The onion is a food as old as history. Authorities can only speculate as to its native habitat, being sure that it was widely used in ancient Palestine and in the Orient generally. The Bible speaks of it as one of the foods so desired by the Israelites in the wilderness that they complained to Moses because of the lack of it. It is recorded also, we are told, that there was once an inscription on the Great Pyramid of Egypt stating that 1600 talents were expended for onions, radishes, and garlic consumed by the laborers who erected that Wonder of the World.

The onion is interesting, furthermore, because of its family relationship. It is own cousin to the beautiful Easter lily.
In our day onions appear on the table in every conceivable kind of dish except deserts. Even the people who do not like onions usually do like at least "a hint" or "a suspicion" of the flavor in their dishes—often they like it without knowing it is there. But the people who do like onions have the advantage of enjoying an additional kind of raw vegetable in salads and sandwiches, thereby contributing to variety in the balancing of their diet. Nutritionists have found that onions have a considerable mineral and vitamin value. This is true especially of raw onions, for their content of vitamins B and C is partly destroyed by cooking.

Of the numberless ways of serving onions, the Bureau of Home Economics calls particular attention to the possibility of utilizing them in place of more expensive vegetables of similar food value. For meal-planning purposes, onions, because of their succulence, their mineral and vitamin content, and in the class with cabbage, tomatoes, carrots, beets, squash, and others of the least starchy foods. They are not as rich in vitamins as cabbage, or tomatoes, or carrots, or as greens of any kind, but eaten in sufficient quantity they go far to balance the bread and potatoes or rice or macaroni which might constitute the most or the rest of the meal.

Favorite onion dishes are: onions and apples fried; onions and tomatoes or cucumbers in salad; onions and peanuts scalloped; onions baked in tomato sauce; liver and onions; onion soup au gratin; young onions on toast; onions stuffed and baked. Then there are the delicate creamed onions; plain boiled onions buttered, which forms the simplest of the cooked-onion dishes; and French-fried onions, which are not as well-known as they deserve to be. For this latter purpose, skin the onions, slice them very thin, separate the slices into rings, dip into a batter of flour, milk, egg, and salt, drain well and fry in deep fat.

Hamburg patties on onion rings are an excellent substitute for the more expensive steak and onions. And whole onions baked with a pot roast add to the flavor of the roast and furnish a delicious vegetable dish besides.

Recipe specialists recommend the large white Spanish or Bermuda onion for cooking, the brown-skinned, smaller one for sautéing; and for pickling, of course the small white bulb.

RECIPES

Roast Stuffed Breast of Lamb
Select a breast of lamb including the fore Shank. Have the butcher crack the bones of the breast so that it can be carved between the ribs. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth, remove the fore Shank, cut off the meat, and grind it for the forcemeat stuffing. Make a pocket in the breast by cutting through the flesh close to the ribs. Sprinkle the inside of the pocket with salt and pepper, pile in the hot forcemeat stuffing tightly, and sew the edges together. Rub the outside with salt, pepper, and flour. Lay the stuffed breast, ribs down, on a rack in an open roasting pan. Do not add water. Place the roast in a hot oven (480 F) and sear for 30 minutes. If there is not sufficient fat to keep the meat from drying out, baste with melted fat, or lay a strip or two of bacon on top. After searing, reduce the oven temperature rapidly to 300 F, and continue the cooking in the open pan until the meat is tender. The total time required will probably be one and one-half to one and three-fourths hours. If there is more stuffing than the breast will hold, bake in a separate dish, or use it as stuffing for onions to serve with the meat. Serve with brown gravy made from the drippings.

For the baked onions, choose a large, mild-flavored variety. Cut the onions in half crosswise and simmer in lightly salted water until about half done. Lift the onions out and arrange in a baking dish. Remove the centers without disturbing the outer layers. Chop the onion centers and add to the forcemeat stuffing. Fill the onion shells with this mixture, cover, and bake in a moderate oven for about one-half, or until the onions are tender. Remove the cover from the baking dish, during the cooking so that the onions will brown well on top.

Forcemeat Stuffing
Grind lean meat from the fore Shank.

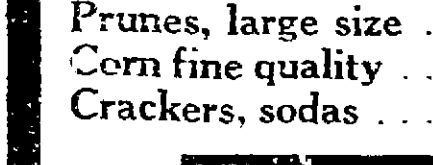

Favorite onion dishes are: onions and apples fried; onions and tomatoes or cucumbers in salad; onions and peanuts scalloped; onions baked in tomato sauce; liver and onions; onion soup au gratin; young onions on toast; onions stuffed and baked. Then there are the delicate creamed onions; plain boiled onions buttered, which forms the simplest of the cooked-onion dishes; and French-fried onions, which are not as well-known as they deserve to be. CRIPPLED GRIDDEERS FACE BEXLEY LION

Neither Smith Nor Miller

GOOD CONTEST SEEN

Kickoff Was Scheduled for 3 o'Clock

Decidedly the underdog with two stars out of the lineup with injuries while two of Bexley's brightest stars were to return to the lineup the Circleville Tiger was to make a stand against the Bexley Lion this afternoon at high school field.

Neither Freddie Smith nor Bud Miller was to see service with the Red and Black, Smith being out with a broken arm and Miller with water on his elbow. If Miller played it was to be against the advice of his doctor.

EVANS BRIGHT IN
At the same time Coach Carlton Smith announced that Evans and Bright, two injured backfield men, would be in the game.

The Tigers won their first game of the league schedule taking Westerville into camp, 26-9, last week and looking impressive while doing it. Bexley took Delaware 19-16, and had a plenty tough time but it must be Delaware is much tougher than Westerville.

Trux was to start at Miller's tackle with White, G. Hill, Speakman and Cook in the Red and Black backfield at the kickoff scheduled for 3 p. m.

NOT READY TO QUIT CHICAGO SAGE SAYS

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Amos Alonzo Stagg, the only football coach and director of athletics the University of Chicago has ever had, is retired.

"The grand old man of the mid-way" who at 70 years can drive a football team with the best of 'em, must step out of the picture quietly at the end of the present season.

Stagg's retirement is automatic under a university rule which fixes 70 years as the age limit of full time faculty members.

But the venerable dean of coaches doesn't want to stop.

GOOD FOR 15 YEARS

"According to my present feeling," he said today, "I expect to be good for 15 or 20 years more of active service."

"I went into athletic work be-

Pitt And Army Tilt Is Featured

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Like the dumb radio announcer, who tells all about the game except who won, we are set today to fling ourselves into the alphabet and pick each and every winner in tomorrow's football entertainment except in the outstanding melee.

We mean we know that Fordham is going to mop up Lebanon Valley, Harvard will fatten on Penn State, Southern California will have a field day with Loyola (Los Angeles), Chicago is going to be just a big brute against little Knox, but who is going to tell Aunt Minnie about the Pittsburgh-Army tilt up at West Point?

OUTSTANDING TILT
The Army-Panthers conflict stands out not only because both are high-class outfits, but they happen to be among the few eleven of the country taking on worthy opponents this Saturday.

The entertainment in the New York area, outside of West Point, is very thin indeed with secondary outfits certain to bow to bigger institutions.

Columbia can't miss with Virginia, New York University has Georgetown for a victim and Manhattan has St. Thomas.

Over at famed Franklin Field in Philadelphia a sweet afternoon should be had by all and there won't be any heavy growth of underbrush between the chalk lines when Dartmouth and Penn say quits. We like Dartmouth, but that doesn't mean a thing, since we liked Notre Dame last season against those modern Trojans at Southern California.

Nearby in Palmer stadium Coach Gil Dobie, who has been ill with sciatica, may be on the verge of a relapse, watching his Cornell gang against Fritz Crisler's Princeton team. The Tigers have not won from anybody of importance these many seasons and tomorrow just doesn't seem to be their day for a change of pace.

Cornell should win but if you want to know how, ask Dobie.

FAVORS GOPHERS
In the mid-west sector the main ballroom will feature Michigan against Ohio State at Columbus and, as they say out there, the fur will palpitate. Both are strong, undefeated teams and have their eyes hooked on that Big Ten title. Ohio handed the Ann Arbor gents their only 1931 defeat, but we favor Michigan because of brilliant play against Northwestern last Saturday.

Purdue should take Wisconsin, Minnesota beat Nebraska and Indiana win from Iowa. Coach Stagg of Chicago says Illinois is better than Northwestern, but no one will believe him. Kansas State is selected over Missouri.

Down in the southland Tennessee has a slight edge over Alabama and Vanderbilt, ought to take a close one from Tulane with Georgia beating North Carolina. Auburn rates better than Georgia Tech and Kentucky looks brighter than Washington and Lee.

GOPHERS IN TOWN

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—Michigan's championship-bound football team swept into Columbus at 7:15 a. m. today, exuding confidence that they'll mop up the Ohio Stadium with Ohio State tomorrow afternoon.

Led by Coach Harry Kipke, once a great Michigan star himself, a squad of 30 muscled Wolverines dropped off a New York Central train and were taken at once to the Columbus Athletic club where they'll be treated like kings as they make last preparations for the big game.

The Wolves were accompanied by a riotous, cheering delegation of fans, who will be followed later by the Michigan band, who will be followed by about 3500 more fans. Interest in the colorful classic between the two old rivals mounted as the Michigan team arrived, and Ohio State spirits were higher than they have been since the Buckeyes were held to a 7 to 7 tie by Indiana last Saturday.

There was serious talk of a Buckeye victory—for no other reason than a patriotism to alma mater which has sprung up this week.

"Beat Michigan," familiar cry, resounded everywhere, following a cheer rally on the campus in the athletes' honor last night.

The anticipate crowd of only 45,000, smallest in recent history of Ohio State-Michigan games, may be greatly boosted by game time, the Ohio State athletic board yesterday having decided to place a stack of general admission tickets on sale at $1.50 each.

CHOCOLATE CHAMP

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The Keed is champ. Synthetic or symbolic, Keed Chocolate is nevertheless the world as far as the New York commission is concerned.

He stopped brave Lew Feldman in 2:45 of the 12th round in Madison Square Garden last night, Pat-sy Haley halting the fracas when a deep cut loomed up on the bridge of Feldman's nose.

"Twas well that such a catastrophe overcame the New Yorker, else he might have been as flat on the floor as a sweep of cold leaf, in a moment or two.

Chocolate had battered Feldman so relentlessly in the ninth, tenth and eleventh that it was a foregone conclusion that he couldn't have tottered much further.

PROMISE BIG EARS FOR CORN CONTEST

Yield In Field For Annual
Husking Contests Is 80
Bushels.

NEWARK, Oct. 14.—An 80-bushel yield and large ears placed high on the stalk are promised for the annual state corn husking contests, October 25, at the Alva Oyer farm at the crossroads of routes 40 and 37.

Preparations are being made to care for a crowd of 15,000 persons who are expected to attend the contests and see the demonstrations of corn growing machinery and the educational exhibits being prepared by the agricultural extension service of the Ohio State University.

County contests under the auspices of the Ohio Farmer, farm publication, are scheduled for 30 counties ten days before the state meet, and the winners of these will vie, at the Oyer farm, for the privilege of representing Ohio at the national contests at Henry-co, Illinois, November 10.

Two types of contests are planned for Ohio farmers—husking of standing corn and husking of corn in the shock. Only the winner of the standing corn contest will go to the national, for in states west of Ohio corn is not husked in the shock, but from the standing stalk with half as much labor.

Demonstrations planned show the efficient use of farm power, the importance of method and timeliness in cultural practices, utilization of the corn crop, and "it still pays to fertilize corn."

Dean John Cunningham of the college of agriculture, Ohio State University, will address the group. James Zimmer of Granville is general chairman of the field day.

Bread on Waters

For an act of kindness performed 25 years ago, Miss Eva Rasmussen, a Waupaca, Wis., waitress, was recently awarded with a $10,000 surprise bequest. When she was 14 years old, a stranger, B. W. Stickney, of Cleveland, O., was injured in an auto accident near her home. Miss Rasmussen tore up her petticoat to bandage his hurts. When Stickney died recently he bequeathed the nest egg to his angel of mercy.

CAMPAIGN

approaches life's bigness from the youth point of view. Dr. Dutton is an expert in handling "Youth Love and Sex Problems."

He does not deal with these matters in a way to arouse the vulgar imagination but enters these fields so constructively that youth see and are amazed at the real meaning of the love world. The common superficial view of these matters with the low interpretation is supplanted by a presentation so charming that youth are left with a vision so enchanting that the one longing is to know the fullness of true Romance. The vulgar is replaced with the sacred; the lust thrust abandoned for the love-craze.

WEALTH OF PERSONALITY
Character education is the supremely needed thing in the new day. Material, technical efficiency will not do for the day now drawing. Technical efficiency must be backed by wealth of personality. To get and spend is not right. Learn to get that we may build a life capable of majoring in growing friendship and living a life so constructively that the chief characteristic is friendship holding power. This is good business. It is the heart of a successful commonwealth. This interpretation is the objective of this series.

The amazing and interesting thing about these "youth Crusades" is the way this expert educator fascinates youth with this realm of life interpretation. Young people are thrilled by the entrancingly interesting way this youth lover approaches his group. Young people soon discover that this stranger has a genuine interest, even an affection for them. They soon lose their sophistication and are amazed at what they learn of their very own lives as they sit at the feet of this master in youth interpretation.

The night programs are as interesting an interpretation of adult life as his school and college addresses are to young life. His interpretation of life is on such an enlarged scale that life is never the same after this Philosopher leads his people into realms of thought undreamed of by the masses.

NO DESTROYER
However, he does not leave "The Faith of our Fathers" in discard. Rather he makes their glorious faith take on undreamed of meaning. His interpretation of "The meaning of the Stars," "The place of man in the Universe," his new interpretation of the personality of the Creator, has startling revelations of the newer Psychology and the way of life possible here and now make the crusade of life long value to all citizenship whether old or young.

This crusade is not a revival. Dr. Dutton is an educator, a philosopher, a life and literature interpreter, a dramatic orator, a community builder. That is why the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and other clubs are led to sponsor his tremendous work; That is why the Colleges and Public school men are behind this man. This is the reason busy pastors and their great churches are willing to get behind such a campaign.

freely with his family and close friends in attendance.

Always active in American Legion affairs, Colonel Cole had presided at the installation of new officers at the Warren post on Monday night only a short time before he was injured. At the close of the Warren meeting, the Ohio commander was enroute to Cleveland with a friend when their automobile skidded on a road made slippery by rain, and overturned into a ditch.

What was at first believed to have been only a slight injury later was revealed as a broken neck. No operation was attempted by the physicians because of the location of the injury, but all other methods known to medical science were used in an effort to save him.

Democrat Leads In Digest Poll

Roosevelt increases his lead over Hoover slightly in the fourth week's returns of nearly 2,000,000 ballots from thirty-eight States in The Literary Digest's nation-wide Presidential poll, reported in tomorrow's issue of the magazine.

Of the 1,983,634 votes tabulated President Hoover receives 781,431 or 39.39 per cent. Governor Roosevelt receives 1,062,087, or 53.54 per cent, and Norman Thomas 106,352, or 5.36 per cent of the total cast to date.

Eighteen new States are reported in the current returns. The only one of this in which Hoover is leading is Vermont. Roosevelt is shown capturing the other seventeen—Arizona, Arkansas, Delaware, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah and Wyoming.

The Hoover strength is confined to the six New England States, which he is shown carrying solidly, and New Jersey. Roosevelt is leading in the other thirty-one States from which returns have been received and tabulated so far.

Hoover is indicated gaining strength in California, Illinois, Indiana, Maine, New Hampshire, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island in all of which states he shows increases over his last week's ratio. Returns from Massachusetts this week show a decrease in his percentage of the total vote there.

In an analysis of "how the same voters voted in 1928" Roosevelt appears to be obtaining more than one-half of his vote from former Republicans in California and Michigan while in the nine other States of Iowa, Kansas, Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Wyoming he has more votes from former Republicans than he has from former Democrats.

The same analysis reveals that Roosevelt has increased his inroads into Republican ranks of four years ago throughout the nation, gaining 39.64 per cent of his entire strength from former Hoover adherents this week as against 37.96 per cent in last week's report.

Roosevelt continues to carry California, the home State of the President, by a lead of nearly 2 to 1. He is ahead also in his own State of New York by a vote of 156,447 to 145,554.

Calculating the current returns on an electoral college basis, Hoover would receive 57 votes and Roosevelt 356.

Massachusetts leads the Republican column giving 58.09 per cent of its vote to the President taking the lead from New Hampshire which had this rank last week.

Roosevelt is indicated receiving a clear majority of all votes cast over all six other Presidential aspirants in twenty-nine of the thirty-eight States reported this week.

CONVICT TELLS

Moane facing Rothstein, who was looking startled and sort of crumpling, and Moane had a gun in his hand."

Kirk, who said he was known in New York under the name of Doyle Quiggle, pinned the motive on love because he claims he chauffeured Goldstein and "Rothstein's blonde" to the Silver Pheasant night club a couple of times.

"I never heard her name," Kirk declared, "but one night I was with Dick in the Manger hotel when a man and this blonde went through the lobby. 'Take a look at that fellow,' Dick said, 'That's Arnold Rothstein.' And it was that same man that I saw Moane shoot and the same girl that Dick had in the car with him. I guess Dick got Moane to bump Rothstein off and the only reason I know was the blonde."

AFFAIRS SKEPTICAL

Kirk reiterated his dramatic reason for "confessing" to Sheriff Abbott, who is a bit skeptical. "I've got a girl in Los Angeles," the youth said, "and I want to marry her. But I can't go to her with unclean hands and this on my mind—this knowledge that might clear up this mystery. I want to make a clean breast of everything and when everybody is done with me I'll go back to my girl."

The "light of my life" he named as a Mrs. Viola Slocum, a Los Angeles divorcee. And he added sheepishly that another Los Angeles girl held his affections too, a Miss Grace Arnold. "I've liked Grace a long time," he said, pondering the problem, "but I'm going to marry Viola; that is if she'll have me after all this is over."

ALL-AMERICAN?

FOLLOWERS of football at Ohio State University expect to have another name to add to the list of Buckeye immortals who have gained All-American honors when Carl Cramer, above, completes the present season. The "spark plug" of the strong Buckeye eleven, Cramer runs, punts and passes with equal ability and is a demon on defense in the safety position. As a sophomore last year, he was named All-Western Conference quarterback and was one of the outstanding figures in Big Ten football for 1931. In the nine game schedule Ohio State played last year, he was a consistent ground gainer and a heady field general.

If Cramer lives up to the predictions made for him this year, he will be the sixth Ohio State player to gain All-American honors. "Chic" Harley, Pete Stinchcomb, Ed Hess, Leo Raskowski and Wesley Fesler are the five Buckeyes who have gained the coveted mythical honor to date. Cramer is a product of Dayton Stivers High School, weighs 168 pounds, is 5 feet 10 inches tall and will vote for the first time this year.

LONDON—Airplane flights from London to New York in six hours is the prediction made by Wing Commander A. H. Orlebar, captain of the Royal Air Force High-Speed Flight for the Schneider Trophy races in 1929 and 1931.

Pitt And Army Tilt Is Featured

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Like the dumb radio announcer, who tells all about the game except who won, we are set today to fling ourselves into the alphabet and pick each and every winner in tomorrow's football entertainment except in the outstanding mele.

We mean we know that Fordham is going to mop up Lebanon Valley, Harvard will fatten on Penn State, Southern California will have a field day with Loyola (Los Angeles), Chicago is going to be just a big brute against little Knox, but who is going to tell Aunt Minnie about the Pittsburgh-Army tilt up at West Point?

OUTSTANDING TILT
The Army-Panthers contest stands out not only because both are high-class outfits, but they happen to be among the few eleven of the country taking on worthy opponents this Saturday.

The entertainment in the New York area, outside of West Point, is very thin indeed with secondary outfits certain to bow to bigger institutions.

Columbia can't miss with Virginia, New York University has Georgetown for a victim and Manhattan has St. Thomas.

Over at famed Franklin Field in Philadelphia a sweet afternoon should be had by all and there won't be any heavy growth of underbrush between the chalk lines when Dartmouth and Penn say quits. We like Dartmouth, but that doesn't mean a thing, since we liked Notre Dame last season against those modern Trojans at Southern California.

Nearby in Palmer stadium Coach Gil Dobie, who has been ill with sciatica, may be on the verge of a relapse, watching his Cornell gang against Fritz Crisler's Princeton team. The Tigers have not won from anybody of importance these many seasons and tomorrow just doesn't seem to be their day for a change of pace. Cornell should win but if you want to know how, ask Dobie.

FAVORS GOPHERS

In the mid-west sector the main ballroom will feature Michigan against Ohio State at Columbus and, as they say out there, the fur will palpitate. Both are strong, undefeated teams and have their eyes hooked on that Big Ten title. Ohio handed the Ann Arbor gent's their only 1931 defeat, but we favor Michigan because of brilliant play against Northwestern last Saturday.

Purdue should take Wisconsin, Minnesota beat Nebraska and Indiana win from Iowa. Coach Stagg of Chicago says Illinois is better than Northwestern, but no one will believe him. Kansas State is selected over Missouri. Down in the southland Tennessee has a slight edge over Alabama and Vanderbilt ought to take a close one from Tulane with Georgia beating North Carolina. Auburn rates better than Georgia Tech and Kentucky looks brighter than Washington and Lee.

Last Night's Fights

By International News Service

At New York—Kid Chocolate, Cuba, defeated Lew Feldman, New York, for world's featherweight title (in New York) by technical kayo (12).

Frank Battaglia, Canadian middleweight, and Chick Devlin, San Francisco, drew (10).

At London, Eng.—Don McCorkindale, South African heavyweight, scored technical kayo over George Cook, Australia (10).

At Philadelphia—Pete Nero, Philadelphia lightweight, defeated Young Firpo, New Jersey (8).

At Hartford, Conn.—Louis Kid Kaplan, former featherweight champion, defeated Eddie Holmes, Providence (10).

GOPHERS IN TOWN

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—Michigan's championship-bound football team swept into Columbus at 7:15 a. m. today, exuding confidence that they'll mop up the Ohio Stadium with Ohio State tomorrow afternoon.

Led by Coach Harry Kipke, once a great Michigan star himself, a squad of 30 muscled Wolverines dropped off a New York Central train and were taken at once to the Columbus Athletic club where they'll be treated like kings as they make last preparations for the big game.

The Wolves were accompanied by a riotous, cheering delegation of fans, who will be followed later by the Michigan band, who will be followed by about 3500 more fans. Interest in the colorful classic between the two old rivals mounted as the Michigan team arrived, and Ohio State spirits were higher than they have been since the Buckeyes were held to a 7 to 7 tie by Indiana last Saturday.

There was serious talk of a Buckeye victory for no other reason than a patriotism to alma mater which has sprung up this week.

"Beat Michigan," familiar cry, resounded everywhere, following a cheer rally on the campus in the athletes' honor last night.

The anticipate crowd of only 45,000, smallest in recent history of Ohio State-Michigan games, may be greatly boosted by game time, the Ohio State athletic board yesterday having decided to place a stack of general admission tickets on sale at $1.50 each.

CHOCOLATE CHAMP

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The Keed is champ. Synthetic or symbolic, Keed Chocolate is nevertheless the new featherweight champion of the world as far as the New York Commission is concerned.

He stopped brave Lew Feldman in 2:45 of the 12th round in Madison Square Garden last night, Patsey Haley halting the fracas when a deep cut loomed up on the bridge of Feldman's nose.

'Twas well that such a catastrophe overcame the New Yorker, else he might have been as flat on the floor as a sweep of gold leaf, in a moment or two.

Chocolate had battered Feldman so relentlessly in the ninth, tenth and eleventh that it was a foregone conclusion that he couldn't have toddled much further.

PROMISE BIG EARS FOR CORN CONTEST

Yield In Field For Annual
Husking Contests Is 80
Bushels.

NEWARK, Oct. 14.—An 80-bushel yield and large ears placed high on the stalk are promised for the annual state corn husking contests, October 28, at the Alva Oyster farm at the crossroads of routes 40 and 37.

Preparations are being made to care for a crowd of 15,000 persons who are expected to attend the contests and see the demonstrations of corn growing machinery and the educational exhibits being prepared by the agricultural extension service of the Ohio State University.

County contests under the auspices of the Ohio Farmer farm publication, are scheduled for 30 counties ten days before the state meet, and the winners of these will vie, at the Oyster farm, for the privilege of representing Ohio at the national contests at Henry-co, Illinois, November 10.

Two types of contests are planned for Ohio farmers—husking of standing corn and husking of corn in the shock. Only the winner of the standing corn contest will go to the national, for in state's west of Ohio corn is not husked in the shock, but from the standing stalk with half as much labor.

Demonstrations planned show the efficient use of farm power, the importance of cultural practices, utilization of the corn crop, and still panned to fertilize corn.

John Cunningham, of the college of agriculture, Ohio State University, will address the group. James Zimmer of Granville is general chairman of the field day.

Bread on Waters

For an act of kindness performed 25 years ago, Miss Eva Rasmussen, a Waupaca, Wis., waitress, was recently awarded with a $10,000 surprise bequest. When she was 14 years old, a stranger, B. W. Stickney, of Cleveland, O., was injured in an auto accident near her home. Miss Rasmussen tore up her petticoat to bandage his hurts. When Stickney died recently he bequeathed the nest egg to his angel of mercy.

approaches life's bigness from the youth point of view. Dr. Dutton is an expert in handling "Youth Love and Sex Problems."

He does not deal with these matters in a way to arouse the vulgar imagination but enters these fields so constructively that youths see and are amazed at the real meanings of the love world. These common superficial views of these matters with the low interpretation so supplanting by youth are left with a vision so enchanting that the one longing is to know the fullness of true Romance. The vulgar is replaced with the sacred, the lust thrust abandoned for the love-careers.

WEALTH OF PERSONALITY

Character education is the supremely needed thing in the new day. Material, technical efficiency will not do for the day now drawing. Technical efficiency must be backed by wealth of personality. To get and spend is not right. Learn to get that we may build a life capable of majoring in growing friendship and living a life so constructively that the chief characteristic is friendship holding power. "This is good business. It is the heart of a successful commonwealth. This interpretation is the objective of this series."

The amazing and interesting thing about these "youth Crusades" is the way this expert educator fascinates youth with this realm of life interpretation. Young people are thrilled by the entrancingly interesting way this youth lover approaches his group. Young people soon discover that this stranger has a genuine interest, even an affection for them. They soon lose their sophistication and are amazed at what they learn of their very own lives as they sit at the feet of this master in youth interpretation.

The night programs are as interesting an interpretation of adult life as his school and college addresses are to young life. His interpretation of life is on such an enlarged scale that life is never the same after this Philosopher leads his people into realms of thought undreamed of by the masses.

NO DESTROYER

However, he does not leave "The Faith of our Fathers" in discard. Rather he makes their glorious faith take on undreamed of meaning. His interpretation of "The meaning of the Stars," "The place of man in the Universe," his new interpretation of the personality of the Creator, has startling revelations of the newer Psychology and the way of life possible here and now make the crusade of life long value to all citizenship whether old or young.

This crusade is not a revival. Dr. Dutton is an educator, a philosopher, a life and literature interpreter, a dramatic orator, a community builder. That is why the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and other clubs are led to sponsor his tremendous work: That is why the Colleges and Public school men are behind this man. This is the reason busy pastors and their great churches are willing to get behind such a campaign.

freely with his family and close friends in attendance.

Always active in American Legion affairs, Colonel Cole had presided at the installation of new officers at the Warren post on Monday night only a short time before he was injured. At the close of the Warren meeting, the Ohio commander was enroute to Cleveland with a friend when their automobile skidded on a road made slippery by rain, and overturned into a ditch.

What was at first believed to have been only a slight injury later was revealed as a broken neck. No operation was attempted by the physicians because of the location of the injury, but all other methods known to medical science were used in an effort to save him.

Democrat Leads In Digest Poll

Roosevelt increases his lead over Hoover slightly in the fourth week's returns of nearly 2,000,000 ballots from thirty-eight States in The Literary Digest's nation-wide Presidential poll, reported in tomorrow's issue of the magazine.

Of the 1,983,634 votes tabulated President Hoover receives 781,431 or 39.39 per cent. Governor Roosevelt receives 1,062,087, or 53.54 per cent, and Norman Thomas 106,352, or 5.36 per cent of the total cast to date.

Eighteen new States are reported in the current returns. The only one of this in which Hoover is leading is Vermont. Roosevelt is shown capturing the other seventeen—Arizona, Arkansas, Delaware, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah and Wyoming.

The Hoover strength is confined to the six New England States, which he is shown carrying solidly, and in the other thirty-one States from which returns have been received and tabulated so far.

Hoover is indicated gaining strength in California, Illinois, Indiana, Maine, New Hampshire, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island in all of which states he shows increases over his last week's ratio. Returns from Massachusetts this week show a decrease in his percentage of the total vote there.

In an analysis of "how the same voters voted in 1928" Roosevelt appears to be obtaining more than one-half of his vote from former Republicans in California and Michigan while in the nine other States of Iowa, Kansas, Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Wyoming he has more votes from former Republicans than he has from former Democrats.

The same analysis reveals that Roosevelt has increased his inroads into Republican ranks of four years ago throughout the nation, gaining 39.64 per cent of his entire strength from former Hoover adherents this week as against 37.96 per cent in last week's report.

Roosevelt continues to carry California, the home State of the President, by a lead of nearly 2 to 1. He is ahead also in his own State of New York by a vote of 156,447 to 145,554.

Calculating the current returns on an electoral college basis, Hoover would receive 57 votes and Roosevelt 356.

Massachusetts leads the Republican column giving 58.09 per cent of its vote to the President taking the lead from New Hampshire which had this rank last week.

Roosevelt is indicated receiving a clear majority of all votes cast over all six other Presidential aspirants in twenty-nine of the thirty-eight States reported this week.

Moane facing Rothstein, who was looking startled and sort of crumpling, and Moane had a gun in his hand."

Kirk, who said he was known in New York under the name of Doyle Quiggle, pinned the motive on love because he claims he chauffeured Goldstein and "Rothstein's blonde" to the Silver Pheasant night club a couple of times.

"I never heard her name," Kirk declared, "but one night I was with Dick in the Manger hotel when a man and this blonde went through the lobby. 'Take a look at that fellow,' Dick said, 'That's Arnold Rothstein.' And it was that same man that I saw Moane shoot and the same girl that Dick had in the car with him. I guess Dick got Moane to bump Rothstein off and the only reason I know was the blonde."

AFFAIRS SKEPTICAL

Kirk reiterated his dramatic reason for "confessing" to Sheriff Abbott, who is a bit skeptical. "I've got a girl in Los Angeles," the youth said, "and I want to marry her. But I can't go to her with unclean hands and this on my mind—this knowledge—that might clear up this mystery. I want to make a clean breast of everything and when everybody is done with me I'll go back to my girl."

The "light of my life" he named as a Mrs. Viola Slocum, a Los Angeles divorcee. And he added sheepishly that another Los Angeles girl held his affections too, a Miss Grace Arnold. "I've liked Grace a long time," he said, "pondering the problem, 'but I'm going to marry Viola; that is if she'll have me after all this is over.'"

NOT READY TO QUIT CHICAGO SAGE SAYS

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Amos Alonzo Stagg, the only football coach and director of athletics the University of Chicago has ever had, is retired.

"The grand old man of the mid-way" who at 70 years can drive a football team with the best of 'em, must step out of the picture quietly at the end of the present season.

Stagg's retirement is automatic under a university rule which fixes 70 years as the age limit of full time faculty members.

But the venerable dean of coaches doesn't want to stop.

GOOD FOR 15 YEARS

"According to my present feeling," he said today, "I expect to be good for 15 or 20 years more of active service."

"I went into athletic work because it offered the largest opportunity for service through contact with young men. No life which removes that contact would meet with my ambitions."

"I feel too young and active," the 70-year-old man said, "to step out. And frankly I am not content to do it. Whether I remain at Chicago or go elsewhere, I wish to be active in the field of coaching."

President Robert M. Hutchins has announced Stagg's successor in the post of athletic director as Thomas N. Metcalf, director of athletic at Iowa state college until his resignation Wednesday.

Appointment of the new football coach will hinge on the recommendations of Metcalf, university authorities said. It is thought, however that either Pat Page or Judge Walter Steffen, both former Chicago stars, will be preferred the post. Page is an assistant on the Maroon coaching staff. Judge Steffen is coach at Carnegie Tech.

And there is also the possibility that Stagg may continue as coach. For according to the university rules a faculty member past 70 may be appointed to do special service. And football coaching may be interpreted as such service, officials said.

A special post has been created for Stagg, that of chairman of the new committee on intercollegiate relations. In that capacity he will represent the university in intercollegiate bodies dealing with athletics. He has accepted the position for one year.

ALL-AMERICAN?

OHIO STATE

FOLLOWERS of football at Ohio State University expect to have another name to add to the list of Buckeye immortals who have gained All-American honors when Carl Cramer, above, completes the present season. The "mark" play of the strong Buckeye eleven, Cramer runs, punts and passes with equal ability and is a demon on defense in the safety position. As a sophomore last year, he was named All-Western Conference quarterback and was one of the outstanding figures in Big Ten football for 1931. In the nine game schedule, Ohio State played last year, he was a consistent ground gainer and a heady field general. If Cramer lives up to the predictions made for him this year, he will be the sixth Ohio State player to gain All-American honors. "Chic" Harley, Pete Stinchcomb, Ed Hess, Leo Raskovsky and Wesley Fessler are the five Buckeyes who have gained the coveted mythical honor to date. Cramer is a product of Dayton Sivers High School, weighs 168 pounds, is 5 feet 10 inches tall and will vote for the first time this year.

ONIONS ARE CHEAPER THAN EVER

There may be pros and cons to the eating of onions, but the cons are mostly aesthetic. Otherwise, providing you like the flavor, the argument is all pro. The cons, moreover, may often be overcome by methods of preparation and manner of use, says food specialists who call attention to the food value, the general usefulness, and, just now especially, the very low cost of onions. Never were they cheaper, say market specialists, and the crop is so large that much of it probably never will be shipped. This is the time to use onions not only to season other dishes, but for themselves alone, as one of the chief vegetables of the day.

The onion is a food as old as history. Authorities can only speculate as to its native habitat, being that it was widely used in ancient Palestine and in the Orient generally. The Bible speaks of it as one of the foods so desired by the Israelites in the wilderness that they complained to Moses because of the lack of it. It is recorded also, we are told, that there was once an inscription on the Great Pyramid of Egypt stating that 1600 talents were expended for onions, radishes, and garlic consumed by the laborers who erected that Wonder of the World.

The onion is interesting, furthermore, because of its family relationship. It is own cousin to the beautiful Easter lily.

In our day onions appear on the table in every conceivable kind of dish except deserts. Even the people who do not like onions usually do like at least a "hint" or "a suspicion" of the flavor in their dishes—often they like it without knowing it is there. But the people who do like onions have the advantage of enjoying an additional kind of raw vegetable in salads and sandwiches, thereby contributing to variety in the balancing of their diet. Nutritionists have found that onions have a considerable mineral and vitamin value. This is true especially of raw onions, for their content of vitamins B and C is partly destroyed by cooking.

Of the numberless ways of serving onions, the Bureau of Home Economics calls particular attention to the possibility of utilizing them in place of more expensive vegetables of similar food value. For meal-planning purposes, onions, because of their succulence, their mineral and vitamin content fall in the class with cabbage, tomatoes, carrots, beets, squash, and others of the least starchy foods. They are not as rich in vitamins as cabbage, or tomatoes, or carrots, or as greens of any kind, but eaten in sufficient quantity they go far to balance the bread and potatoes or rice or macaroni which might constitute the most of the rest of the meal.

Favorite onion dishes are: onions and apples fried; onions and tomatoes or cucumbers in salad; onions and peanuts scalloped; onions baked in tomato sauce; liver and onions; onion soup au gratin; young onions on toast; onions stuffed and baked. Then there are the delicate creamed onions; plain boiled onions buttered, which form the simplest of the cooked-onion dishes; and French-fried onions, which are not as well-known as they deserve to be. For this latter purpose, skin the onions, slice them very thin, separate the slices into rings, dip into a batter of flour, milk, egg, and salt, drain well and fry in deep fat.

Hamburg patties on onion rings are an excellent substitute for the more expensive steak and onions. And whole onions baked with a pot roast add to the flavor of the roast and furnish a delicious vegetable dish besides.

Recipe specialists recommend the large white Spanish or Bermuda onion for cooking; the brown skinned, smaller onion for seasoning; and for pickling, of course, the small white bulb.

Supper

Fried green tomatoes, macaroni with cheese sauce, whole wheat bread and butter, milk for all.

RECIPES

Roast Stuffed Breast of Lamb
Select a breast of lamb including the fore Shank. Have the butcher crack the bones of the breast so that it can be carved between the ribs. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth, remove the fore Shank, cut off the meat, and grind it for the forcemeat stuffing. Make a pocket in the breast by cutting through the flesh close to the ribs. Sprinkle the inside of the pocket with salt and pepper, pile in the hot forcemeat stuffing lightly, and sew the edges together. Rub the outside with salt, pepper, and flour. Lay the stuffed breast, ribs down, on a rack in an open roasting pan. Do not add water. Place the roast in a hot oven (480° F) and sear for 30 minutes. If there is not sufficient fat to keep the meat from drying out, baste with melted fat, or lay a strip or two of bacon on top. After searing, reduce the oven temperature rapidly to 300° F, and continue the cooking in the open pan until the meat is tender. The total time required will probably be one and one-half to one and three-fourths hours. If there is more stuffing than the breast will hold, bake in a separate dish, or use it as stuffing for onions to serve with the meat. Serve with brown gravy made from the drippings.

For the baked onions, choose a large, mild-flavored variety. Cut the onions in half crosswise and simmer in lightly salted water until about half done. Lift the onions out and arrange in a baking dish. Remove the centers without disturbing the outer layers. Chop the onion centers and add to the forcemeat stuffing. Fill the onion shells with this mixture, cover, and bake in a moderate oven for about one-half, or until the onions are tender. Remove the cover from the baking dish, during the cooking so that the onions will brown well on top.

Forcemeat Stuffing
Grind lean meat from the fore-

Shank.
2 cups fine dry bread crumbs.
2 tablespoons butter or other fat.
1-4 cup chopped celery.
1 tablespoons chopped onion.
1 sprig parsley, cut fine.
1-8 teaspoon celery seed.
1-4 teaspoon savory seasoning.
1 teaspoon salt.
1-8 teaspoon pepper.
Melt the butter in a frying pan, add the celery and onion, and cook for two or three minutes. Add the ground meat, and stir until the juice evaporates and the meat browns slightly. Then add the bread crumbs and seasonings and stir until well mixed.

Fried Onion and Apples
3 tablespoons fat.
1 quart slice tart apples.
1 pint sliced onions.
1-4 teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon sugar.
Melt the fat in a heavy frying pan, add the apples and onions, cover, cook slowly until nearly tender, and stir frequently to prevent scorching. Remove the cover, sprinkle the salt and sugar over the apples and onions, and continue the cooking until they are lightly browned. Serve at once.

foreign minister had asked Insull to leave the country. "No such statement was ever made and the government has no such intention," the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, the American legation awaited instructions following Insull's flat refusal to surrender his passport, which he has placed in the custody of his attorney, Christos Ladas.

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 14.—Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities " czar," revealed today he fears he may be shanghaied.

Wanted by Chicago authorities to answer indictments of embezzlement and larceny, the ex-millionaire is worried over the possibility he may be forced aboard some American ship and carried home to face his accusers.

Jessie Banstelle, Maker of Picture Stars, Passes Away

DETROIT, Oct. 14.—Jessie Banstelle, "the star maker," is dead.

The veteran actress, who developed and sent on to greatness some of the most famous stars of screen and stage, succumbed after a heart attack at her home here today.

Among the ambitious youngsters whom she trained to develop later into stars of the first magnitude, were Catherine Cornell, Ann Harding, Ben Lyon, William Powell, Kenneth Price, and the late Robert Ames.

She was known to be past sixty, but would never reveal her exact age.

LENORE ULRIC'S ROMANCE AT END

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Whisperers of Broadway today spread the report that the glamorous romance of Lenore Ulric, seductive siren of the footlights, and Sidney Blackmer, great lover of the stage and screen, was at an end.

A Reno divorce was said to be planned by the couple. The two stage celebrities were married in 1929.

Miss Ulric, in her uptown apartment, refused to discuss a report that her husband and she were now living apart.

POLICE OF STATE GIVEN NEW POWER

May Search Known Liquor or Gambling Joints Without Warrant.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—Police of Ohio were given new ammunition for their war on vice today through a ruling by the state supreme court which entitles them to search for liquor and gambling places without a warrant.

Warrants are required only for searching "bona fide residences" and places where violations of the liquor and anti-gambling laws are obvious, flagrant or admitted, do not come within that class, the court ruled.

The decision was handed down in a series of decisions in search and seizure cases which were appealed from the Cleveland municipal court.

WRITER IS FREED

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 14.—A divorce was granted today to Ursula Parrott, novelist, from her banker husband Charles T. Greenwood, of New York.

Miss Parrott did not ask for alimony. Recommendations of State Referee Isaac Wolfe that the novelist be granted a divorce and that her legal name be changed back to Ursula Parrott were accepted by Superior Court Judge John A. Cornell.

Miss Parrott was not present in court.

fearlessly and generously." After insisting that it took the Republican administration at Washington "almost three years to recognize this principle," he added: "For at least two years after the crash the only efforts made by the national administration to cope with the distress of unemployment, were to deny its existence."

Declaring that he "practiced what he preached," the Governor recalled that in 1930 New York state greatly increased its employment service and that the following year he called a special session of the legislature and secured an appropriation of $20,000,000 for unemployment relief.

LED ALL STATES

"Thus," he said, "New York became the first among all states to accept the definite obligation of supplementing local funds where those local funds were insufficient."

He asserted that when relief funds finally were provided by the federal government, they were pushed at the demand of Congress rather than through the leadership of the President of the United States.

Although favoring the reduction of all government expenditures, Roosevelt said he was "utterly unwilling that economy should be practiced at the expense of starving people."

"We must economize in other ways," he said, "but it shall never be said that the American people have refused to provide the necessities of life to those who, through no fault of their own, are unable to feed, clothe and house themselves. The first obligation of the government is that the protection of the welfare and well-being—the very existence of its citizens."

TRIAL NEAR END

Maschke Embezzlement Cases To Go To Jury Late Friday, Is Belief.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14.—With a blaze of oratory attorneys for the state and defense in final argument today fought for and against the conviction of Morris Maschke, county Republican leader, and four codefendants on charges of embezzling 177,000 from the Cuyahoga-co treasury.

"The defendant's story does not ring true," Emrich B. Freed, assistant county prosecutor, declared in making the first of the state's final argument.

"The shortage in the county treasury has never been traced," charged William J. Corrigan, defense counsel. "The indictments were premature and should never have been returned until the treasury probe is completed."

PICKAWAY-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

The biology class has been enjoying the privilege of watching the activities of a tarantula. The spider was brought to school by Lloyd Finley, whose brother captured it while employed in the shipping room of the Kroger warehouse in Columbus.

The first grade is again in possession of the honor banner for attendance. Small as they are, the first graders have been showing the way to the other grades of the school in attendance. They have won the banner for the best attendance three times during the past four weeks. Attendance averages are figured each week. Miss Ethel Noggle is the teacher of this group.

The high school boys have begun to play speedball. The game serves as a fine conditioner for basketball, and the rules of the game are such that each boy in high school has the opportunity to participate.

The school regrets to hear of Howard Dean's misfortune. Howard fell from a tree, last week, while picking apples, breaking both arms just above the wrists. We hope that his recovery is rapid.

Our smallpox scare seems to have evaporated, but we, therefore, need fear no outbreak in the near future. Most of the upper grade and high school students were immunized seven years ago, and most of the children in the lower grades were immunized by Dr. Beale two weeks ago. The two families who have the disease are progressing nicely.

Candidates are: Marshall Spangler and Franklin Blagg for president; Willard Dudson and Dono Estell for vice president; Rosemary Boggs and Valma Smith for secretary; Wayne Wilson and Gerald Imier for treasurer; Harold Anderson and Carl Boggs for sergeant-at-arms; Helen Rhoades, Edith Smith, James Rader and Betty French, for the executive board two to be elected. The result of the election will be announced later.

BELLAIRE, Oct. 14.—Claiming that hundreds of persons are in dire straits, a committee of unemployed today had petitioned the Bellaire city council for free gas, coal, water and electric service.

This Woman Lost 64 Pounds of Fat

Mrs. H. Price of Woodside, L. L. writes: "A year ago I weighed 180 lbs. I started to take Kruschen and soon I lost 120 and never felt better in my life and what's more, I look more like a 20 year old than the mother of 4 children, one of 19 and the other 4. My friends say it's marvelous the way I reduced."

"MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY"

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY

BY ANTHONY ABBOT

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR

THATCHER COLT had arranged a singular and discordant vacation. In the living-room of the penthouse were gathered all the persons most concerned in the final solution of the two murder cases.

It gave me an odd feeling, just to see these various characters assembled under one roof. Seated calmly in the most comfortable chair in the room, with its ebon linen walls of uneven weave, was Vincent Rowland, the end of a cigarette making a red glow in the mass of white hairs surrounding his mouth. Beside him, her back to the sun's veiling of a terrace window, was Mrs. Carewe. She had taken the most uncomfortable chair in the room. Dressed in black silk, with a fringed black shawl over her shoulders, the mother whispered to the debonaire old attorney. It was quite evident that Mrs. Carewe looked to Vincent Rowland for reassurance and advice, and that the dapper old attorney was prepared to play the role of the friend of the family. Mrs. Carewe paid no attention at all to Dorothy Lox, who sat on the other side of her. Posing theatrically in front of the fireplace, as if taking his position there for the rise of the second-act curtain, was Guy Everett. Since our last interview with the actor, he had been carefully attended by barbers, and one felt, by his masseur. The man exuded that well-rubbed feeling. His mustache tips were exquisitely waxed, his cheeks flushed, but his eyes were dulled with the loss of sleep and too many highballs. Everett, too, was smoking a cigarette.

On a divan left from the fireplace sat Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Quires. Husband and wife were close to each other, exchanging no words but staring into space, as if ferreting an inevitable outcome. Beside them sat one I had almost forgotten—the plump and pitiful Mrs. Hugh Baldwin.

Two others were in the room—Eunice and Chung. The maid was in a low chair in a dark corner, almost effaced by shadows. But the Chinaman, resplendent in a royal violet silk, corded with gold, stood defiantly forth. His place was under a bracket of lamps where I had once before observed him—and the glow of light fell on his nostrils and misshapen head, always turned a little to one side. Chung was not grinning now, and yet I seemed to detect a hint of a smile, lurking restlessly at a corner of his wide lips. His hands at his sides, Chung stood there, resplendent and quiet, a man to be reckoned with.

In our party there were four—Thatcher Colt, Dougherty, Flynn, and myself. We waited in a tense assembly, in utter silence. Chung stepped forward to take our wraps, but Thatcher Colt motioned him off. We put our things away in a closet, and then, as Thatcher Colt paced forward toward the center of the room, the rest of us grouped ourselves, as the chief had now ordered, near the door. All other doors and windows were guarded by Lincoln.

"I see," rumbled Dougherty. "But there is only one elevator in the building?"

"There are several."

"Hmp!" sniffed Dougherty, but he was silent. I knew was wholly temporary. Guy Everett was his. (Smoked cigarette and the embers of the fireplace and the embers of a fresh case.)

"I will not detain you long," promised the Commissioner, looking around him quietly. "The police have come to the point where we believe the two murders in which we are all interested can be solved. I have asked you all to meet with me here because you all are concerned in that solution. There are one or two points that I want to clear up, and to do that I wish to attempt a physical reconstruction of the crime."

Here the Commissioner turned to Eunice, cowering in the far corner. "Where were you at about 12:15 o'clock last night when Christine Quires reached home?" he asked.

"Where I told you—in my own room," answered the maid, sulky with alarm.

"Please go there now," requested Colt, and waited, while Eunice hastened with short quick steps across the room, through the rear door, and into her own chamber.

"And Chung," continued Colt, "you said that you were reading the life story of a movie star—in the kitchen."

"You are right, Mr. Commissioner. I was reading in the third chapter of Book II in the life of Clara Bow—and I was in the kitchen."

"Please go there now," requested Colt, and waited, while Eunice hastened with short quick steps across the room, through the rear door, and into her own chamber.

"Christine, if we are to believe the elevator boy, left his car on the floor under this," resumed Thatcher Colt. "He closed the door and went downstairs. At least, that is his story. We have considered the possibility of his having attacked Christine. But the theory seems too far-fetched for sober consideration. For one thing, we have the testimony of several groups of tenants in this building who furnish him with such an alibi, that only a margin of two or three scattered minutes remain for him to kill Christine, hide the body, and eventually to spirit the remains into a room in this carefully guarded apartment."

"You can count out the elevator boy," growled Flynn. "I had a long session with him and I know what I am talking about."

"Accepting his alibi, then," continued Thatcher Colt, "we have Christine Quires outside of the elevator door, on the twenty-second floor of this building. From that moment on, her movements are a mystery. She is not to be seen again, except by her murderer, until we find her body."

"What, then, could have happened?"

"Let us imagine that we can follow her footsteps. She is not feeling well. She has left her New Year's Eve party because of illness. She has, let us say, but one idea—to get to bed. So, feeling very ill, she traverses the long corridor downstairs. She mounts the twisting iron staircase that leads to the entrance door of this penthouse door. From her purse she takes a key. She opens the door and enters this room."

"She sees no one. Lola is out. Mrs. Carewe is in her room, and the door is closed. The servants are in their quarters. She feels cold. She goes over to the fireplace. She puts her purse, not from a few moments' exposure on the sidewalk, on the mantel where it remains unnoticed until I picked it up last night. Christine is feeling very ill now. The report of the medical examiner shows that her stomach had been upset by indigestion."

"Recently eaten food?" queried Dougherty.

"Within an hour."

"Then it was the food that she ate at the hotel's party?"

"Undoubtedly."

Impudently, Dougherty turned and looked again long and darkly at Guy Everett.

"Did you have anything to eat at that night club?" he asked.

"A little," answered Guy Everett, manifestly very ill at ease.

"Did you get sick, too?"

"I did not."

"Did you have the same stuff as the girl did?"

"I believe I did. Yes."

"I thought that one over didn't you? Then you realized we could check on you out there and find out exactly what you ordered. Learned a lesson from that Moter Parkway business, didn't you? Say, listen, Everett—"

"To be continued."

The Daily Horoscope

Friday, Oct. 14, 1932

This is read as a more negative than positive day according to Astrologers. There are indications of a disturbance in business and social life. Important matters should be deferred until a more favorable time when the forces of nature may be more propitious.

Salesmen should not limit their prospects; they should be cool and calm in dealing with them today. Many people will find themselves becoming impulsive with a desire for quick attention and results.

Eat slowly of a well balanced diet is the advice of the seers today. The mind is likely to be disturbed which condition may react upon the stomach and digestion.

It is not a lucky day for speculation; one should pay close attention to money matters, and especially it is necessary for one to guard against losing his job. It is likely to prove to be a day ruled by impulse, sensitiveness and lack of moderation.

In the early afternoon there are indications of an active business in stocks and bonds and similar lines. The late afternoon and evening point to a detrimental aspect which is very evil for partnership matters and unexpected business losses.

Carelessness should be avoided on the part of electrical workers, railroad operators, aviators, and especially auto drivers. A warning is given to those crossing streets to be careful.

The late hours of the evening show disappointments and loss of friends.

Persons whose birth date it is are just emerging from almost three years of hazardous conditions. They have much success in store for them during the next two years.

Children born on this day will have many problems in life to face, which aspect is for the purpose of their developing a stronger character. The parents should assist these little ones to overcome many of their defects through reason and kindness.

William Penn, English Quaker and founder of Pennsylvania, was born on this date, 1644. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Ferdinand VII, king of Spain, 1784.

"Captain of the Men of Death" To Be Laid Low?

Through the Brilliant Work of Medical Scientists, Great Progress Is Being Made Toward Solving the Mystery of Pneumonia, Cause of One-Tenth of All Fatalities.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

PNEUMONIA was named by Pone of old as "Captain of the Men of Death." This is an appropriate name, because statistics show that about ten percent of all the deaths in a community can be traced to pneumonia. It respects neither age nor sex, and is particularly fatal in the very young and the aged.

New knowledge concerning pneumonia has been gained within recent years. It is now known that there are four types of the disease. Types "one" and "two" constitute about half of all the cases of pneumonia. Type "three" is the most serious form, but fortunately for mankind only about ten percent of cases belong to this group. Type "four" is a miscellaneous group in which are included about one-third of all the cases.

Until then we must continue to guard against colds and infections. We must keep in mind that lack of sleep, excessive fatigue, exposure to cold and dampness and lack of nourishment are among the factors that may encourage the development of pneumonia.

The Early Symptoms Many cases of pneumonia can be traced to neglecting the common cold. Infections involving the upper air passages, particularly of the throat, should be regarded as danger signals. Many of the infections of childhood, such as measles, whooping cough and scarlet fever, if neglected, may lead to pneumonia, and when this complication occurs it is indeed serious.

Persistent cough, pain in the chest and fever are signs that must never be overlooked. Too often these early symptoms of pneumonia are unsuccessfully treated with home remedies. Complete rest in bed, careful nursing and medical attention are essential to complete recovery.

foreign minister had asked Insull to leave the country.

"No such statement was ever made and the government has no such intention," the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, the American legation awaited instructions following Insull's flat refusal to surrender his passport, which he has placed in the custody of his attorney, Christos Ladas.

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 14.—Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities "Czar," revealed today he fears he may be shanghaied.

Wanted by Chicago authorities to answer indictments of embezzlement and larceny, the ex-millionaire is worried over the possibility he may be forced aboard some American ship and carried home to face his accusers.

Jessie Banstelle, Maker of Picture Stars, Passes Away

DETROIT, Oct. 14.—Jessie Banstelle, "the star maker," is dead.

The veteran actress, who developed and sent on to greatness some of the most famous stars of screen and stage, succumbed after a heart attack at her home here today.

Among the ambitious youngsters whom she trained to develop later into stars of the first magnitude, were Catherine Cornell, Ann Harding, Ben Lyon, William Powell, Kenneth Price, and the late Robert Ames.

She was known to be past sixty, but would never reveal her exact age.

LENORE ULRIC'S ROMANCE AT END

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Whisperers of Broadway today spread the report that the glamorous romance of Lenore Ulric, seductive siren of the footlights, and Sidney Blackmer, great lover of the stage and screen, was at an end.

A Reno divorce was said to be planned by the couple. The two stage celebrities were married in 1929.

Miss Ulric, in her uptown apartment, refused to discuss a report that her husband and she were now living apart.

Recommendations of State Referee Isaac Wolfe that the novelist be granted a divorce and that her legal name be changed back to Ursula Parrott were accepted by Superior Court Judge John A. Cornell.

Miss Parrott was not present in court.

POLICE OF STATE GIVEN NEW POWER

May Search Known Liquor or Gambling Joints Without Warrant.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—Police of Ohio were given new ammunition for their war on vice today through a ruling by the state supreme court which entitles them to search for liquor and gambling places without a warrant.

Warrants are required only for searching "bona fide residences" and places where violations of the liquor and anti-gambling laws are obvious, flagrant or admitted, do not come within that class, the court ruled.

The decision was handed down in a series of decisions in search and seizure cases which were appealed from the Cleveland municipal court.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 14.—A divorce was granted today to Ursula Parrott, novelist, from her banker husband Charles T. Greenwood, of New York.

Miss Parrott did not ask for alimony.

Recommendations of State Referee Isaac Wolfe that the novelist be granted a divorce and that her legal name be changed back to Ursula Parrott were accepted by Superior Court Judge John A. Cornell.

fearlessly and generously.

After insisting that it took the Republican administration at Washington "almost three years to recognize this principle," he added: "For at least two years after the crash the only efforts made by the national administration to cope with the distress of unemployment were to deny its existence."

Declaring that he "practiced what he preached," the Governor recalled that in 1930 New York state greatly increased its employment service and that the following year he called a special session of the legislature and secured an appropriation of $20,000,000 for unemployment relief.

LED ALL STATES

"Thus," he said, "New York became the first among all states to accept the definite obligation of supplementing local funds where those local funds were insufficient."

He asserted that when relief funds finally were provided by the federal government they were pushed at the demand of Congress rather than through the leadership of the President of the United States.

Although favoring the reduction of all government expenditures, Roosevelt said he was "utterly unwilling that economy should be practiced at the expense of starving people."

"We must economize in other ways," he said, "but it shall never be said that the American people have refused to provide the necessities of life to those who, through no fault of their own, are unable to feed, clothe and house themselves. The first obligation of the government is that the protection of the welfare and well-being—the very existence of its citizens."

TRIAL NEAR END

Maschke Embezzlement Cases To Go To Jury Late Friday, Is Belief.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14.—With a blaze of oratory attorneys for the state and defense in final argument today fought for and against the conviction of Morris Maschke, county Republican leader, and four codefendants on charges of embezzling $177,000 from the Cuyahoga-co treasury.

"The defendant's story does not ring true," Emrich B. Freed, assistant county prosecutor, declared in making the first of the state's final argument.

"The shortage in the county treasury has never been traced," charged William J. Corrigan, defense counsel. "The indictments were premature and should never have been returned until the treasury probe is completed."

PICKAWAY-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

The biology class has been enjoying the privilege of watching the activities of a tarantula. The spider was brought to school by Lloyd Finley, whose brother captured it while employed in the shipping room of the Kroger warehouse in Columbus.

The first grade is again in possession of the honor banner for attendance. Small as they are, the first graders have been showing the way to the other grades of the school in attendance. They have won the banner for the best attendance three times during the past four weeks. Attendance averages are figured each week. Miss Ethel Nogge is the teacher of this group.

The high school boys have begun to play speedball. The game serves as a fine conditioner for basketball, and the rules of the game are such that each boy in high school has the opportunity to participate.

The school regrets to hear of Howard Dean's misfortune. Howard fell from a tree, last week, while picking apples, breaking both arms just above the wrists. We hope that his recovery is rapid.

Our smallpox scare seems to have evaporated, but we, therefore, need fear no outbreak in the near future. Most of the upper grade and high school students were immunized seven years ago, and most of the children in the lower grades were immunized by Dr. Beale two weeks ago. The two families who have the disease are progressing nicely.

Candidates are: Marshall Spangler and Franklin Blagg for president; Willard Hudson and Dena Estell for vice president; Rosemary Boggs and Velma Smith for secretary; Wayne Wilson and Gerald Imbler for treasurer; Harold Anderson and Carl Boggs for sergeant-at-arms; Helen Rhoades, Edith Smith, James Rader and Betty French, for the executive board, two to be elected. The result of the election will be announced later.

SEEK FREE FUEL

BELLAIRE, Oct. 14.—Claiming that hundreds of persons are in dire straits, a committee of unemployed today had petitioned the Bellaire city council for free gas, coal, water and electric service.

A demand was made also for the establishment of a soup kitchen and clothing for children.

U. B. MISSIONARY

MEETING THURSDAY

An inspiring and interesting meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Brethren church was held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. C. O. Kerns of W. Union-st. The vice-president, Miss Nelle McColister, was the program leader for the evening and she opened her session with an impressive worship service, based upon the theme for the year, "Launch Out into the Deep." This was interspersed with prayer and concluded with a solo by Mrs. Fannie Greeno.

"News Flashes from the Fields" was the next number on the program, in which several ladies took part. An effective dialogue entitled "I Wish Mother Knew" was given by Mrs. C. O. Kerns and Mrs. Blanche Kerns.

The new pastor, Rev. T. C. Harper, gave a most instructive and interesting talk on the subject "Bonebrake Seminary, its Relation to the Church and Missions." He brought out very clearly that the Seminary is the very heart of church and missionary activities and how very dependent church members are upon the training it gives to missionaries, leaders and workers in Kingdom building.

Music closed the program after which the president, Mrs. Ralph Long, conducted the business transactions. Plans were perfected for Woman's Day which will be held Oct. 30. A committee consisting of Miss Nelle McColister, Mrs. Nan Kirkpatrick and Mrs. James Trimmer was appointed to plan the program.

The group meeting to be held in Chillicothe Oct. 25 was also stressed and it was requested as many as possible attend. Mrs. Abbie Gusman and Mrs. Ellen Hegele were appointed in charge of transportation.

The fall campaign was also discussed and some active work planned. The meeting closed with prayer after which dainty refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Fannie Greeno, Miss Cora Hampshire, Miss Daisy Woolver and Mrs. Jennie Steele.

Bow to Gentleman's Preference In Milady's Newest Hair Styles

* * * * *

Blonde Is Still the Prevailing Tint, Natural or Synthetic. Hairpins Passe as Stylists Decree Return of Short Bob.

Because a gentleman's preference does not change as rapidly as milady's fashions, the Miss America of 1933 will make a metaphorical bow to the "Lords of Creation" by retaining in her crowning glory the tint that the gorgeous male is said to prefer. She will be blonde. Whether out of a bottle or through nature's own process of pigmentation. And she will not be the type of blonde that will cause embarrassing explanations to the brunette side of the triangle for there will be no long threads of spun gold to become unstuck from the wearer and later detected on a male shoulder. In short, very short, we might say, Miss America of 1933 will be bobbed. That is the decree of the leading hairdressers of New York and other fashion centers who are taking part in the American Beauty and Style Exposition in New York, from October 17th to 20th. The new bob, short but remaining soft and feminine will sound the death knell of the long-hair bun and flowing bob that have swept milady's shoulders a la Garbo for so many moons. It will also write finis to the movement towards that shade of hair politely known as auburn or "hair like Titian loved to paint." Bobbed and blonde is the slogan. Above are some of the lovely styles in coiffure for which milady may choose the vogue most suited to her face. Take your pick girls, but remember, no hairpins.

125 ENJOY FATHER AND SON FISH FRY AT BROTHERHOOD

Another Red Letter event was marked at the Lutheran Brotherhood Thursday evening when a Father and Son fish fry was enjoyed by 125 members and guests. K. J. Herrmann, president, was back in the chair after undergoing an operation.

J. D. Hummel, Clarence Heilering and George Himrod were in charge of preparation of the fish fry; Charles L. Mack acted as toastmaster, and the program offered can be termed excellent.

An interesting feature of the program was that of the six men on the program only one is the father of a son.

Herbert Melvin was the honor guests of the evening having the most sons, four, present at the meeting.

PROGRAM GOOD

Charles Hax, new English teacher at Circleville high school, gave a well-received talk on "Should a Son of Mine Play Football?"

He was followed by C. C. Schwarz and his violin and then Charles Whittlinger gave two readings. A blackboard talk "Mutual Duties of Father and Son" was presented by Rev. George L. Troutman.

Hillaire Haecker played the harmonica, piano and chattering harp for which he received rapturous applause and Marion Sensenbrenner published the bulletin, termed "The Circleville Examiner" which disclosed that if anyone is seeking an editor for a scandal sheet, Mosey should fill the bill.

The next meeting for reformation festivities will be conducted by the pastor on Nov. 10.

"A million members of the Shareholders in America league are being sought before Nov. 8," Mr. Dye said, "and Ohio is one of the states which is counted on to help in a large way." Fred M. Pickens has been named director of Pickaway-co's drive for funds.

LESS STOCK MUST EAT MORE GRAINS

Feed Supplies Unusually Large and Livestock Population Small.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—Farmers will have cheap feed this winter. The total supply of all feed grains in unusually large this year, and farmers now have fewer animals to eat it.

Total tonnage of feed crops, according to crop reports received by C. R. Arnold, rural economist for the Ohio State university, is 13 per cent larger than a year ago and 7 per cent greater than average.

Feed supplies are more evenly distributed than for several years, Arnold finds. For the first time in three years no single large area suffered severely from drought. Crops were uniformly good except in a narrow strip extending through western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio south to North Carolina. This area is small compared to the drought areas of 1930 and 1931.

In Ohio, smaller crops of feed grains were harvested, especially of corn, but owing to the large carryover of this grain from the huge crop of a year ago, Ohio farmers will cope with no shortage, in the opinion of the economist.

At the present time, with prices as they are, poultry offers the best outlet for this large feed supply, says Arnold. Egg prices are slightly higher than a year ago, and prices of other farm products average 20 per cent under a year ago. Prices of poultry are better, in comparison with the prices of a year ago, than prices being received for other meat products.

SURVIVORS OF VETS

TO WIN COGNAC
DETROIT—A "Last Man Club" today has been formed by members of Evacuation Hospital No. 13, with a bottle of choice French cognac as the prize.

The organization, composed of World War veterans from Pittsburgh, Huntington, W. Va., Cleveland, Toledo, Chicago, Kalamazoo, Mich., Detroit and several cities, will hold annual dinners until only two members are left.

The two survivors will then consume the cognac, according to Jack R. C. Cann, executive secretary of Wayne County Council, American Legion, a member of the outfit.

What puzzles us about the Republic of Liberia is that it has neither public accounts, a budget nor money and yet is in distress.
